GOP sweep takes all spots except one at-large council seat

Madison Mayor-elect Bob Courtney spoke at Republican Headquarters Tuesday night after leading the GOP to a sweep of eight of the nine elected offices in the city. Other GOP winners standing behind Courtney include (from left) District 4 Councilwoman Katie Hosier-Rampy, Clerk-Treasurer Rick Berry, Council At-Large winner Jim Bartlett, District 1 Council winner Patrick Thevenow, District 2 Council winner Amanda Creech and District 3 Council winner Lucy Dattilo. Madison will see four more years of Republican leadership as the city's mayoral election went GOP for a third consecutive election on the strength of Bob Courtney's 2,284 to 1,488 win over Democratic challenger Julie Berry.

But unlike the back-to-back wins by former Mayor Damon Welch in 2011 and 2015, Tuesday's election saw the GOP also sweep eight of the nine city offices as incumbent Democratic council members Jan Vetrhus, Robert "Derma" Smith, Darrell Henderson and David Alcorn all lost bids for re-election with only Democratic Councilman At-Large Daniel C. Dattilo escaping the Republican wave.

Courtney and incumbent GOP Clerk-Treasurer Rick Berry carried all 13 precincts to out-poll their Democratic counterparts across the board. Berry's 2,462 to 1,238 win over Democratic challenger Phil Mullins also produced the widest gap of the day as the former Democrat turned Tea Party member turned Republican carried 66.54% of the votes to Mullins' 33.46%.

GOP Chairman Karl Eaglin said the big win is the product of a lot of hard work to get out among the voters, visit them on their home turf and hear their concerns and tell them how you plan to fix their problems. He thinks Republicans outworked their Democratic counterparts throughout the campaign.

"We've preached and preached to get out and knock on doors, talk and visit people on their porches and get out in the community," Eaglin said. "I noticed on Monday we still had two candidates downtown — Patrick Thevenow and Lucy Dattilo — who were still knocking on doors and I think that is our strong point. You can do a lot of advertising in The Madison Courier and other places but people want to see you.

"We always stress to be honest, be fair and don't slam your opponents and just tell them what you're going to do, and I think that's our strong point, too," Eaglin added. "We've never gone into mud-slinging. I think you've just got to be honest and fair and work hard to get there."

Both the mayor's race and clerk-treasurer's race followed a similar pattern to the last election in 2015 when Welch defeated Jan Vetrhus 1,914 to 1,192 and Berry edged Democrat Tammy L. Boldery 1,582 to 1,530.

Precinct 4-1A, which votes at the VFW on Madison's hilltop, was once again the Republican stronghold while Precinct 1-1, which votes at the American Legion in downtown Madison, was the most supportive of Democrats.

Courtney carried 67.94% of the vote at Precinct 4-1A to Berry's 32.06% for a 214-101 win, while Berry's strongest precinct was 1-1, where she still lost 54.78% to 45.22% while being outpolled by Courtney, who grew up in that precinct on Walnut Street, 195 to 161.

Trimble County residents vocal about zoning regulations

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

Trimble County may be just one meeting away from adopting new zoning regulations, after its Fiscal Court voted narrowly Monday night to amend the existing ordinance and voted down a motion to repeal it.

Heated dialogue between residents on both sides of the argument dominated most of the meeting as magistrates moved forward on an issue that has gripped the county since last year. Supporters of zoning have said it would protect against future solid waste farms from moving into the county, while opponents have argued the regulations are overkill in rural communities like Trimble.

Fiscal Court approved the first version of the ordinance in November 2018, after working for two years on a set of regulations. Opposition from some magistrates and the community led the court to suspend enforcement in January until August and then conduct a first reading to repeal in July. When a second repeal reading came up a month later, magistrate Kenny Green motioned to table that, giving members of the Trimble County Planning and Zoning Commission time to amend the ordinance to minimize restrictions while protecting against future companies like R&R Septic and Excavation, which tried putting a "sludge farm" in the county this summer.

Members of the planning and zoning commission have since worked closely on the zoning laws with Tom FitzGerald, a part-time contract attorney with a history of land use cases. If the amendments were to pass, Commission Chair Mike Pyles said, they recommend a Jan. 1, 2020 enforcement start date.

Magistrates Kenny Green, Chris Liter and Kirby Melvin voted in favor of the amendments, while magistrate JD Jones and Judge-Executive Todd Pollock voted no. Jones and Pollock then voted in favor of a repeal, but were again out-voted by Liter, Green and Melvin.

A crowd of 50 to 60 — big enough to move the meeting from the judge-executive's office to the courtroom — had plenty to say about zoning's implications for residents.

"I don't own much land, just a little bit over an acre, but I pay taxes on that acre. If I decide that I want to put up a shed, or whatever, I don't think that I should have to go to the county, to the courthouse...or any of the magistrates and get a permit and pay for that permit," said resident Kathi Seabolt.

Pyles stepped to the podium and addressed concerns over permits and additional costs that come with zoning. Residents who want to build structures less than 576 square feet on their property do not need a permit under the new zoning laws, he said. Anything more would cost five cents a square foot.

Autumn Kruer, a resident of the county for about 30 years, echoed Seabolt's opinion. She said she moved to Trimble County from Louisville because it gave residents more freedom over property.

"To me, it is a liberty issue... my ancestors, like many of us here, fought for libertly. They fought over a 5% tax. They were willing to die to be able to do what they wanted with their property and their income and their land. And that's my stance on planning and zoning," Kruer said.

Peggy Wainscott, a supporter of zoning in the county, spoke up. "We don't need to turn this into a big fight and have the county all turned against each other...it's to protect us, it's not to hurt the farmers, it's not to hurt the individuals, it is to protect our county and our kids' future, because we dodged a bullet with that sludge farm...I really just think that Trimble County is worth it," Wainscott said.

Jackie Jeffries, a bus driver for Trimble County Schools, said she had seen the effects of the nearby landfill on the condition of the buses. Although not a fan of zoning, she said she sees the need to keep similar operations out of the county.

"I'm not worried about that $30 (for a permit). But I am worried about my property value," Jeffries said.

Magistrates also spent a fair amount of time discussing what it could cost to enforce zoning. Magistrate Jones said the county had budgeted $15,000 for enforcement but wouldn't be surprised if it exceeded that amount. Nearby Henry County spends about $100,000, and Gallatin County spends about $68,000, he noted.

The unofficial date for the next reading is temporarily set for Dec. 2, he said.

Democratic mayors win re-election in Indianapolis, Fort Wayne

By TOM DAVIES
Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — The Democratic mayors of Indianapolis and Fort Wayne cruised to big victories in Tuesday's local elections, denying Republicans their hopes of capturing leadership in either of Indiana's largest cities.

Voters decided who would fill dozens of mayoral offices for the next four years, while unofficial election returns showed those in Vigo County supporting the construction of western Indiana's first casino in Terre Haute.

Indianapolis Mayor Joe Hogsett declared victory over Republican state Sen. Jim Merritt in Tuesday's local elections. Unofficial Marion County results showed Hogsett with 70% of the vote.

Fort Wayne Mayor Tom Henry extended his 12-year tenure leading Indiana's second-largest city with about 60% support.

Hogsett touted his work with Republicans on the City-County Council on efforts such as hiring more police officers and adding streetlights, despite criticism from Merritt over continued troubles with violent crime in the city and the condition of local roads.

"If you are willing to do the work that makes bipartisanship real, if you are willing to seek out what unites us rather than exploits what divides us, you can make true and lasting our collective progress together," Hogsett said.

Republicans had targeted the Fort Wayne race as they sought to boost their political dominance in the state by taking control of mayoral offices held by Democrats in many of Indiana's biggest cities.

Henry pointed to the city's economic growth and the completion of several downtown construction projects as successes during his time as mayor.

"Over last 10 years there's been over $500 million invested in our downtown," Henry said. "Because of that we have become a shining beacon in the state of Indiana."

A top aide and high school friend of Democratic presidential candidate Pete Buttigieg will replace him as South Bend's mayor as he won nearly two-thirds of the vote.

James Mueller, the city's Department of Community Investment director, said in his victory speech that "Trumpism has no place in South Bend." He declared the city would take the election momentum into 2020 and pointed to Buttigieg while saying "with our next president standing right over there."

The crowd responded with a chant of "Pete! Pete! Pete!"

Republican Evansville Mayor Lloyd Winnecke easily won a third term over two little-known opponents and Democrats didn't run a challenger.

Voters in Muncie and Elkhart decided to change political parties for mayor after their current leaders didn't seek re-election while facing controversies in their administrations.

Republican City Councilman Dan Ridenour won in Muncie, where Democratic Mayor Dennis Tyler announced he would step aside amid an FBI investigation that's resulted in the city's former building commissioner pleading guilty to money laundering and wire fraud.

In Elkhart, Democrat Rod Roberson, a former city councilman, defeated a former Republican mayor in an open seat after Republican Mayor Tim Neese abandoned his campaign for a second term as the city's police leadership faced criticism over the handling of misconduct cases, including a video showing two officers beating a handcuffed man. Two city officers were charged this year with federal civil rights violations for using excessive force.

Republican Howard County commissioner Tyler Moore easily won the Kokomo mayor's race, where Democrat Greg Goodnight didn't run again after three terms.

The Vigo County referendum on Tuesday's ballot was included in a gambling bill approved by state lawmakers this year that would make Terre Haute the 14th city in Indiana with a state-licensed or tribal casino.

Vigo County clerk's office vote tallies show more than 60% of voters favored allowing the casino.

Two casino companies have expressed interest in Terre Haute, with one touting a project of at least $100 million that would have 300 to 400 workers. They have until Dec. 1 to submit proposals to the Indiana Gaming Commission, which would select an operator for the license.

Evansville mayor wins re-election but GOP dealt stunning setback in city council races

EVANSVILLE — Voters gave Republican Mayor Lloyd Winnecke a singular victory Tuesday, re-electing him by a runaway margin over two little-known challengers but rejecting his determined effort to bring a GOP City Council majority with him.

Democrats actually expanded their current tenuous majority on the council — four Democrats, three Republicans and two independents — to a more commanding 7-2 margin. The stunning setback came despite a considerable investment of campaign cash and services on behalf of GOP City Council candidates by Winnecke and his chief deputy.

Winnecke had better luck in his own contest against independent Steve Ary and Libertarian Party nominee Bart Gadau. Seeking his third four-year term, the mayor rolled up almost 81 percent of the vote against Ary's nearly 15 percent and Gadau's almost 5 percent. Democrats did not oppose Winnecke, marking the first time a major political party had failed to field a candidate for Evansville's top job in at least 85 years.

Surrounded by friends and supporters at a celebration at the DoubleTree by Hilton, Winnecke acknowledged the Republican setbacks in City Council campaigns.

"But we respect the decisions of the voters," he said. "Had we not done anything on behalf of our slate of candidates, the defeats might have been even worse. We're going to take it philosophically. I'm proud of the campaigns that everyone ran. It is what it is."

There were 16,038 voters who cast ballots this year — some 4,000 fewer than the 20,090 votes cast in 2015's city election.

Winnecke said it's possible the absence of a Democratic opponent at the top of the ballot could have kept Republican voters away from the polls this time. If the mayor wasn't politically threatened, his supporters might not have felt an imperative to vote.

"I've looked at the totals. I've not had time to do any analysis, so I think that analysis will come in the days ahead," he said. "But that certainly could have had a role (in the Republican City Council defeats)."

The 81 percent of the vote that Winnecke won was not the largest majority accorded any candidate for Evansville mayor in modern times, but it was close. Democratic Mayor Jonathan Weinzapfel rewrote the history books in 2007 by capturing just more than 85 percent of the vote against Republican David J. Nixon.

Ary, a pastor at non-denominational church CityGate Indiana, and Gadau, a third-shift line inspector at Toyota, went after Winnecke aggressively during the campaign. They cast him as an elitist presiding over a city beset with crime, poverty and homelessness and the figurehead of an out-of-touch political establishment.

Gadau and Ary charged that Winnecke had frittered away millions of dollars on extravagant, showy projects such as Main Street development and the Ford Center that appeal primarily to affluent residents. They said Winnecke's priorities aren't important to the majority of city residents whose everyday concerns are far more pressing.

1 vote gives Dems 4-3 majority of Columbus council

COLUMBUS (AP) — Democrats will hold a City Council majority in Vice President Mike Pence's Indiana hometown for the first time since the 1980s if a candidate's one-vote victory margin holds up.

Unofficial results from Tuesday's local election show Democrats winning a 4-3 Columbus City Council majority as they defeated two Republican incumbents. The (Columbus) Republic reports that Republican Councilman Dascal Bunch might seek a recount of the 260-259 tally favoring Democrat Jerone Wood.

Bartholomew County Democratic Party chairman Bob Hyatt says the council victories came from young candidates stepping up and wanting to make a difference.

Republican Mayor Jim Lienhoop was unopposed for re-election. He says city leaders have worked across party lines for a long time.

The county clerk says Democrats last won a City Council majority in the 1983 election.

Kentucky Governor's Race

Bevin refuses to concede as Beshear claims victory

By BRUCE SCHREINER
Associated Press

LOUISVILLE — Kentucky's bitter race for governor went into overtime Wednesday as Democrat Andy Beshear declared victory while Republican Gov. Matt Bevin, a close ally of President Donald Trump, refused to concede with results showing he trailed by a few thousand votes.

With 100% of precincts reporting, Beshear — the state's attorney general and the son of Kentucky's last Democratic governor, Steve Beshear — had a lead of 5,333 votes out of more than 1.4 million counted, or a margin of less than 0.4 percentage points. The Associated Press has not declared a winner.

Bevin actually carried both Trimble and Carroll counties locally, where 58.39% in Trimble and 52.28% in Carroll voted to retain the incumbent.

Bevin received 1,374 votes to Beshear's 1,184 in Carroll County while Libertarian candidate John Hicks got 65 votes as 2,623 of the county's 8,142 eligible voters participated in the election for a 32.33% turnout.

Bevin ran stronger in Trimble, where the voter turnover hit 36.66% with 2,688 of the county's 7,412 eligible voters participating. His 1,580 votes were well ahead of Beshear's 1,057, while Hicks had 69.

In competing speeches late Tuesday, Beshear claimed victory while Bevin refused to concede.

"My expectation is that he (Bevin) will honor the election that was held tonight," Beshear said. "That he will help us make this transition. And I'll tell you what, we will be ready for that first day in office, and I look forward to it."

Kentucky inaugurates its governors in the December following an election.

Bevin, meanwhile, called the contest a "close, close race" and said he wasn't conceding "by any stretch."

"We want the process to be followed, and there is a process," he said.

Bevin won the 2015 GOP primary for governor by just 83 votes, noting wryly Tuesday night: "Would it be a Bevin race if it wasn't a squeaker?"

The margin is much larger this time. Bevin hinted there might be "irregularities" to look into but didn't offer specifics. His campaign didn't immediately respond to an email seeking an explanation.

Kentucky has no mandatory recount law. Bevin may request counties recanvass their results — not a recount, but rather a check of the vote count to ensure the results were added correctly. Bevin would need to seek and win a court's approval for a recount.

"The margin is large enough to not have a reasonable expectation that it can be closed with anything outstanding," Kentucky Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes' office said in a statement. "The process laid out by the law will be followed and all candidates do have a recourse to review or challenge their results."

Grimes, a Democrat, has overseen 20-plus recanvasses during her two terms as secretary of state, her office said. The results never changed significantly enough to flip the outcome of a race, it said.

While Bevin wasn't throwing in the towel, some prominent Kentucky Republicans were conceding that Beshear won.

Republican strategist Scott Jennings referred to Beshear as Kentucky's next governor, wishing him "godspeed" and saying he "ran a good race" in a social media post.

Andy Beshear

Also on social media, GOP state Rep. Jason Nemes said: "Governor-elect Beshear is entitled to the democratic legitimacy that comes with loser's consent. So let's go through the process honorably and expeditiously and give it to him."

The final hours of campaigning were dominated by Bevin's endorsement from Trump.

Trump had loomed large in the race as Bevin stressed his alliance with the Republican president in TV ads, tweets and speeches. Trump carried Kentucky by a landslide in winning the presidency in 2016 and remains popular in the state. The president took center stage in the campaign with an election eve rally to energize his supporters for his fellow Republican.

But the combative Bevin struggled to overcome a series of self-inflicted wounds, highlighted by a running feud with teachers who opposed his efforts to revamp the state's woefully underfunded public pension systems.

Bevin lagged well behind the vote totals for the rest of the GOP slate for statewide offices. Republican candidates swept Kentucky's races for attorney general, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and agriculture commissioner.

Trump took credit Wednesday for the near sweep, tweeting, "Our big Kentucky Rally on Monday night had a massive impact on all of the races. He claimed that Bevin "picked up at least 15 points in last days, but perhaps not enough (Fake News will blame Trump!)."

Beshear dominated urban areas in Louisville and Lexington and won some traditionally Republican suburban counties in the state's northernmost tip, just south of Cincinnati, to offset Bevin's strength in rural areas. Beshear also made inroads in eastern Kentucky, winning several counties in a region where Trump is highly popular.

While Beshear looks to quickly pivot to governing, he'll confront a dominant GOP. Republicans hold overwhelming majorities in the state legislature.

Beshear maintained his focus throughout the race on "kitchen table" issues like health care and education to blunt Bevin's efforts to hitch himself to Trump and nationalize the race.

On health care, Beshear could have an immediate impact by backing away from a Bevin proposal to attach work requirements to Medicaid benefits received under the Affordable Care Act. Bevin's plan for some "able-bodied" recipients has been challenged in court and is yet to be enacted, and Beshear has vowed to rescind it.

Beshear also has said he wants to legalize casino gambling and use that revenue to support public pensions. Some Republican lawmakers campaigning for Bevin vowed to reject that idea if it came before them.

Beshear also exploited Bevin's feud with teachers over pensions and education issues, repeatedly referring to Bevin as a bully.

Beshear said Tuesday night that teachers shared in his victory.

"To our educators, your courage to stand up and fight against all the bullying and name calling helped galvanize our entire state," Beshear said.

Beshear proposed a $2,000 across-the-board pay raise for public school teachers and vowed to submit "an education-first budget" to lawmakers.

Hanover man is convicted of meth dealing, possession

Courier staff report

Michael D. Crawley, 56, of Hanover, was convicted Oct. 31 by a Jefferson County jury of multiple felonies, including two counts of dealing in methamphetamine as Level 4 felonies, two counts of possession of methamphetamine as Level 6 felonies and maintaining a common nuisance, a Level 6 felony.

The police investigation leading to the conviction began in February 2019 and was the result of a tip to the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department by a confidential informant. The informant notified Deputy Linton Spry of an arrangement to purchase a half

Michael D. Crawley

"game" or methamphetamine, approximately 1.5-2 grams, for $85.00.

Detectives made arrangements to meet the informant and prepare the controlled buy.

The controlled buys were made Feb. 21 and 23 and resulted in two $85.00 purchases at the 281 East Main Street residence of Michael D. Crawley.

On Feb. 21, 2019, Crawley sold the informant approximately 1.68 grams of a crystal-like substance that field-tested positive for methamphetamine. Two days later, on Feb. 23, Crawley again sold the informant a crystal-like substance, in an amount weighing approximately 1.69 grams. The second controlled purchase also field-tested positive for methamphetamine. Both substances were sent to the Indiana State Police Lab for testing and confirmed to be methamphetamine.

Jefferson County Prosecutor David Sutter thanked the jury and the law enforcement officers who worked on the case.

"I want to give special thanks to the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department, particularly the excellent work of Detective Yancy Denning; Special Deputy Tim Armstrong; Deputy Ben Flint; and Deputy Linton Spry. It is because of their ongoing excellent work, we were able to secure this conviction and we continue to track down and prosecute drug dealers in Jefferson County," said Sutter.

Crawley will be sentenced in the Jefferson County Circuit Court Nov. 19.

8 tons of unused meds left

Courier staff report

Hoosiers participated in the 18th nationwide "Prescription Drug Take Back Day" Oct. 26 by going to multiple sites throughout the state to drop off more than eight tons of unneeded medications.

"Kudos to everyone who helped protect their loved ones from substance misuse by safely disposing a total of over eight tons of medication," said Jim McClelland, Indiana executive director for drug prevention, treatment and enforcement. "We hope more people will take advantage of convenient prescription dropoff locations available year round across Indiana."

In partnership with the federal Drug Enforcement Administration, the drug take-back initiative tries to prevent prescription drug abuse and theft through proper disposal of prescription drugs. Eighty-eight sites across Indiana partnered to collect unused medication.

During the one-day event, the DEA reported Hoosiers safely disposed of 16,483 pounds of unused medication. The Indiana State Police alone received 1,488 pounds of unused, expired or unwanted medications for proper disposal.

For more information about the bi-annual "Prescription Drug Take Back Day" or to find year round disposal locations go to https://takebackday.dea.gov/

Snake laws after python attack?

OXFORD (AP) — An Indiana town is considering restrictions on certain snakes after a woman was strangled by an 8-foot-long python.

"I think it's almost unanimous in town that people want an ordinance against restrictive snakes," Oxford Town Council President Randy Jones said Monday during the first meeting since the death last week of Laura Hurst.

The 36-year-old woman was found on the floor of a snake-filled home in Oxford with a python wrapped loosely around her neck. Hurst lived 20 miles away but regularly visited the house where she owned 20 of the approximately 140 snakes. None are venomous.

The snake that strangled Hurst was the only one out of its enclosure, police said.

The home is owned by Benton County Sheriff Don Munson, who is a snake breeder and lives next door.

Schenkman brings fresh energy to historic instrument

Byron Schenkman

By CHARLIE ROHLFING

I watched the original Addams Family TV series when it first ran 55 years ago. And I was so captivated by Lurch the butler playing the harpsichord that I willingly took piano lessons, with the dream of one day becoming a concert harpsichordist!

My dream died somewhere between basketball practice and discovering girls, but for Byron Schenkman it became a reality. I should mention that Byron is at least a generation younger than me, and was drawn to classical chamber music not by a '60s sitcom, but by hearing and experiencing the real thing.

"I always wanted to perform," Byron said, "since I was 10 or 11 years old. I was drawn to early music played on historical instruments, especially in small ensembles. Classical chamber music became my focus."

To say Byron is from a musical family is a bit of an understatement. His parents were musicians, of course, and you may recall his nephew, Teddy Schenkman, performed a viola concert here in Madison about a month ago. Now Byron is playing here this Friday at Trinity United Methodist Church as part of the Madison Performing Arts Foundation concert series.

"I like chamber music because it's more intimate and social than larger orchestra performance," Byron said. "It's more about connecting with the audience. How often do you get a group of people together in a room all focusing intently on something beautiful?

"About half of my performances are on piano, and half on harpsichord. Harpsichords are delicate and obviously not as common as pianos. They don't always travel well." The harpsichord for this concert is coming from Cincinnati. It's an exquisite reproduction instrument built in 1998.

"There's a lot more variability in harpsichords than with pianos. The keys might be a different size, and the tone can be quite different. I have spent time with each new harpsichord and adapt to its unique character. It's a collaboration between the instrument and the player.

Byron received an undergrad degree from the New England Conservatory in Boston, and a master's from Indiana University. He's played all over the world, but now calls Seattle home. "I helped start a Baroque orchestra in Seattle, and we run a chamber music series called Byron Schenkman & Friends.

"The Baroque period was late 17th and 18th centuries, and the most famous composer is probably J.S. Bach. I'll also perform sonatas from the Italian master Domenico Scarlatti, and a female composer named Anna Bon who was a virtuoso from the 18th Century.

"But every concert is different. The room size, the acoustics, the instrument, and the energy of the audience. That's what I really love, the dynamics and uncertainty of every new performance." The concert this Friday is free, and begins at 7 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church.

ON ANOTHER NOTE
Village Lights Salon Concert on Nov. 15

Village Lights Bookstore is continuing its legacy of outstanding intimate salon concerts next Friday, Nov. 15. The concert, titled Drum and Wind, features master musicians Jamal Mohamed on percussion and Jonathan Jones on woodwinds. They explore melodies, textures, and improvisations, using an array of acoustic and electronic instruments. The duo has performed around the world using rhythms and melodic content from Africa, Asia, and the Middle East, as well as contemporary American music. Seating is extremely limited, so reserve your space by visiting the bookstore, or by calling 812-265-1800.

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK:

This weekend is a little bit quieter than last! The first annual Mad Hop Festival was a home run, and next year will be even better. That being said, we still have some great live music happening around town. The harpsichord concert Friday at Trinity United Methodist will be a standout. And, The Lighthouse down on the river has put up some wall curtains to keep things warm and toasty and has the Four Piece Chicken Dinner band on Saturday night. Kudos to Steve Fischer for making live music a priority at the Lighthouse.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

Tough race to lose, but wishes Courtney well

Democratic mayoral candidate Julie Berry and husband, Pat, watch as Republican Bob Courtney pulls away in the election results. (Courier staff photo by Collin Overton)

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

The Jefferson County Democratic headquarters fell to a hush as the final vote count announced Republican Bob Courtney's 796-vote victory over Democratic candidate Julie Berry.

Berry appeared emotional throughout the night after each precinct result showed her and other Democratic candidates falling behind. A crowd of about 100 that included fellow candidates, family, friends and supporters munched pizza and brownies as they watched the results flash on a projector.

City council at-large candidate Dan Dattilo was the lone Democratic victor in a Republican rout of city offices. He spoke to the crowd after the results were final.

"I just want to thank you guys for voting — being a part of this process. I want everyone to know how hard that Julie worked, Julie worked harder than any candidate out here," Dattilo said to a thunderous round of applause.

Berry spoke to the Courier after embraces with friends, supporters and family.

"I'd like to thank all who supported our campaign for Madison's mayor," Berry said. "We fell short of our goal tonight, but brought up many important issues during this race. Issues like homelessness and substance abuse, our suicide problem and some of the challenges that are facing Madison. I think we did that honestly and openly. I'd like to thank my family, particularly my husband, Pat, Mary Kate Butler, all my committee members, my siblings and nieces and nephews and a host of friends and supporters. I congradulate Bob Courtney and he has my best wishes for a successful administration."

After the final results, Berry sent a text message to Courtney.

"Bob, congratulations on your win. I wish you well, and have every expectation you will do a great job. Well done. Julie"

Technically still interim, but Courtney now full speed ahead

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney will technically be the city's interim leader through Dec. 31 but make no mistake about it, Courtney has already gone to work in the office he will now hold for the next four years, thanks to a Republican rout in Tuesday's general election.

Courtney defeated Democratic challenger Julie Berry 2,284 to 1,488 to lead a sweep of all but one elected office in the city. Only incumbent Democratic Councilmember At-Large Daniel C. Dattilo avoided the GOP landslide by out-polling two Republicans and fellow Democratic incumbent David Alcorn to hang onto one of the seven council seats.

It was a lively party at GOP headquarters from the start Tuesday night and the steady flow of returns reaffirmed the building victory each step along the way. Within an hour of polls closing at 6 p.m. the party had proclaimed victory for everybody but council at-large candidate Josh Wilber.

One of the highlights of the night was the Republican win by Patrick E. Thevenow in the traditionally Democratic District 1 council race, where he out-polled Democrat Jan Vetrhus almost 2-1 at 553 votes to 301.

But the center stage belonged to Courtney, who took over as interim mayor last month after a Republican Caucus elected him to serve out the unexpired term of Mayor Damon Welch. At that time, Courtney pledged to see Welch's initiatives through to the end of the year. By out-polling Berry 60.55% to 39.45% Tuesday, he's now received a mandate to also tackle some of his own initiatives moving forward.

"I've already hit the ground running and now I've just got to get my transition team in place and see what we can improve upon in the city," Courtney said, just seconds after taking a congratulatory call from Gov. Eric Holcomb and other GOP state leaders. "My first priority will be community safety — first and foremost. We know there are things we can do to improve community safety and we've already started taking action on that in the three weeks that I've been in the mayor's office. That is the foundation of anything. We want clean, vibrant neighborhoods and that will create a safer community and one that will be successful in the future."

Courtney noted that his lopsided win and the GOP's success was "unprecedented" and part of a big night for Republicans throughout the Sixth Congressional District.

"In my opinion we almost had a clean sweep — we won eight of the nine city races. This is unprecedented," Courtney said. "And it's because of the hard work of the candidates but also for our outreach to the community. The community said they want our leadership and we're going to deliver it. We're going to be results-oriented and we're going to deliver."

Rick Berry's big win was also in 4-1A, where he out-polled Mullins 77.96% to 22.04% to build a 237-67 gap, while Mullins ran strongest in Precinct 1-1 with 45.14% while still being out-polled 192 to 152.

Both Welch and Rick Berry ran strong in 4-1A in 2015 — Welch beating Vetrhus 156-69 and Berry out-polling Boldery 140-86 — but both candidates lost Precinct 1-1 in 2015 where Vetrhus edged Welch 154-147 and Boldery beat Berry 174-126.

This time around both Republicans benefited by strong GOP support in the District 1 council race, where political newcomer Patrick E. Thevenow out-polled Vetrhus 210-124 (61.04% to 33.22%) in Precinct 1-1, while independent Derek Alexis Hughes claimed 52 votes.

In the end, the Democrats won a few scattered precincts but none for much effect other than Dattilo's successful bid for re-election.

Dattilo ran strong throughout the city to easily stand as the top overall vote getter among the four at-large candidates with 1,998 votes. He was also the top vote-getter in nine of the 11 individual precincts.

Other Democrats who pulled off precinct wins only to lose their overall races were Smith, the District 3 incumbent, in Precinct 2-1 and District 5 incumbent Henderson in Precinct 5-1. Democratic challengers Thomas Ray Sedam Sr. and Brad Wood picked up a precinct win each in 4-2 and 1-2, respectively, and Wood also tied Republican Amanda Kay Creech in Precinct 1-2.

Although GOP Council At-Large challenger Joshua J. Wilber finished fourth in that race, where only the top two vote-getters are elected, he ran well in the Republican stronghold Precinct 4-1A, where he was the top vote-getter with 169 votes (29.81%), with fellow Republican Jim Bartlett running second with 163 votes (28.75%). In Bartlett's case, that was enough to give him the push he needed to unseat Democrat Alcorn for the final at-large seat on city council.

In straight-party voting, the Republicans bested the Democrats 584 to 334.

Eaglin said Republicans pulled off the big win without some of the name-calling and negative campaigning voters often see in statewide and national elections and he's proud that GOP candidates focused on the issues and their vision for the future.

"I'm very proud of our candidates," Eaglin said. "I can't think of a single thing. There's some things that came out from other people as far as mud-slinging but nothing came from any of our candidates other than maybe a correction. I don't know of anything that I'd consider mud-slinging.

"You can't control what's going on around you or other outside connections but they did not talk to me or anyone else in the party about any of that. I spoke to no one about anything on the Madison forums. I think it was the candidates and the hard work that everyone put in this year that pushed us over the top."

The GOP celebrated Tuesday night and woke up Wednesday still smiling from the big win, Eaglin said the work will begin soon with both voters and the party expecting and deserving progress.

"Whatever you run on, whether it's the security and safety of our community or sidewalk issues or other things we have going on, when you make promises, you've got to keep them," Eaglin said. "We will meet and discuss all that at different times and we will hold them accountable for what they ran on.

"I think that's what hurt some of the Democrat friends that I have. They made a lot of promises but there wasn't much there and we're going to make sure those promises are kept. I know Bobby Courtney has also said we will review all of those promises periodically and make sure that those promises are being kept."

BOYS SOCCER PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Do-everything Heitz leads Madison to historic season

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

When Madison boys soccer coach Kyle Bipes was looking at his roster this past summer, he knew that he had the goal scorer he needed. But he wasn't sure if he had that all-important distributor of the ball that all teams need in order to be successful.

As it turns out, Will Heitz was the perfect person for the job and the result was one of the best seasons in school history.

Heitz used his athleticism and ball skills to record the rare "double-double" of 10 goals and 13 assists this season to lead the Cubs to a 12-7-2 overall record and a regional runner-up finish and earn Madison Courier Boys Soccer Player of the Year honors.

Bipes doesn't mince words when he talks about his junior star.

"Without him, we don't win nearly as many games as we did," Bipes said. "He controls the middle, he wins everything in there, he gets all of the guys fired up and ready to go, and if the other team scores, he's there picking everybody up. He was just so big for us."

> "Without him, we don't win nearly as many games as we did. He controls the middle, he wins everything in there, he gets all of the guys fired up and ready to go, and if the other team scores, he's there picking everybody up. He was just so big for us."
> Madison coach Kyle Bipes

Senior Carson Denton led Madison in goals with 18 and was the player who opposing defenses feared most, but it was Heitz who was behind nearly every great Cub play. Whether it was controlling the middle of the field, finding the perfect pass or even scoring a goal of his own, Heitz was seemingly everywhere.

"My favorite thing about soccer is finding the plays and getting assists is probably one of my favorite things," Heitz said. "Because if you play a good pass, it looks good and it gets the team involved in playing their heart and playing all out until the 80 minutes are done."

Being the emotional backbone of the team was arguably Heitz's greatest strength. After opening the season with a 3-0 loss at home to Corydon, Madison ripped off six-straight wins and showed what kind of team it could be.

Heitz, predictably, was in the middle of the rally with six assists over that stretch. But he also showed he could score and even recorded a hat trick in one game, opening his coach's eyes.

"I knew Carson would be our leading goal scorer, but after that, I didn't know where we would get scoring from. We didn't have that last year," Bipes said. "Will didn't score much to start the season, but he had six assists early and then he started scoring and I'm thinking to myself, 'he could have at least 10 and 10' which is huge for a player around here. He did everything for us. Carson was our leading goal-scorer and had a great season, but Will did absolutely everything for us, offensively and defensively."

Despite a rough final three weeks, Madison still ended the regular season with eight wins and won three more the following week to claim its first sectional title since 2010. The Cubs then opened the regional tournament with a 3-0 victory over West Vigo.

"This year, everything clicked all at once. We lost our first game, kind of hung our heads, thought about it for second. But then the next game, the way we played, I thought there was no doubt that we were going to have a good season," Heitz said. "And with the freshmen coming in

Hanover's Nall named D3Hoops.com All-American

sports@madisoncourier.com

Hanover women's basketball player Alexis Nall was been named Preseason Second Team All-American by D3Hoops.com on Tuesday.

Nall, a senior from Mount Vernon, is the first women's basketball player from the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference to be named higher than the third team in D3Hoops' preseason rankings. She is the first Hanover women's player to ever be honored by the site.

Nall was the HCAC's Most Valuable Player and a First Team All-Region selection a year ago after a tremendous junior season. She averaged a double-double with 18.4 points and 10.5 rebounds per game and broke her own school record by shooting 59.1 percent from the floor, which was good enough to place among the top 10 nationally. Her 15 double-doubles also ranked inside the top 25 for most in Division III.

Nall will use her final campaign with the Panthers to try and climb the all-time scoring leaderboard. She surpassed 1,000 career points last season and currently has 1,095 points over three years.

Both Hanover basketball teams picked 2nd in HCAC

Both of Hanove's basketball teams have been picked to finish second in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference this season in voting by league coaches.

The Hanover women received 88 points and one first-place votebehind only defending league champion Transylvania, which collected 90 points and eight first-place votes. Rose-Hulman was third with 62 points and a first-place vote and was followed by Anderson (59 points), Franklin (54), Bluffton (52), Defiance (50), Earlham (39), Mount St. Joseph (38) and Manchester (18).

The Hanover men, who won both HCAC regular season and tournament titles last year, received 83 points in the poll, including one of the 10 first place votes. Transylvania claimed the top spot with 95 points and six first place votes. Rose-Hulman, which tallied 73 points and two first place votes, was third in voting followed by Franklin (72 points), Bluffton (66 and one first place vote), Anderson (47), Mount St. Joseph (42), Earlham (33), Defiance (23) and Manchester (16).

The Hanover women are coming off a third straight HCAC tournament berth after finishing the 2018-19 regular season at 18-7 overall and 14-4 in league play. Head coach John Jones will return several key players including Alexis Nall, a senior from Mount Vernon and the reigning HCAC Most Valuable Player, as well as former Madison Cub Katie Hartman and

Hanover women dominate 2nd half to beat Franklin

sports@madisoncourier.com

Hanover finally took control of its semifinal contest against Franklin late in the first half then blew open the match in the second to roll to a 3-0 win in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference women's soccer tournament Tuesday on campus.

The Panthers, the No. 2 seed in the tourney, had trouble shaking loose of upset-minded Franklin over the game's first 35 minutes, even giving up a penalty kick chance in the 25th minute that went wide.

But Hanover finally gained its footing late in the half, launching three shots at the Franklin goal over the final eight minutes, two of which hit off the post from near point-blank range.

The Panthers finally broke through in the 57th minute of the second half when Bryn Rolfsen, a sophomore from Loveland, Ohio, connected on her first penalty kick of the season.

That marker changed the complexion of the match as Hanover dominated the final 35 minutes, getting a second goal by Ruby Kate Gray, a sophomore from Lexington, Kentucky, in the 82nd minute and a final score from Abby Howes, a senior from Terre Haute, in the 87th minute for the final margin. Brandi Brock and Autumn Boothby provided assists on the goals.

Hanover ended up holding a 22-8 advantage in overall shots, including 12-2 on goal, as well 6-2 in corner kicks. Amanda Carmosino, a sophomore keeper from Noblesville who is the reigning HCAC Player of the Week, needed only two saves to record the win.

Franklin ended its season with a 7-12-1 record.

Hanover, now 11-5-2 on the season, advances to the HCAC championship game where it will face top-seeded Rose-Hulman on Saturday. The Fightin' Engineers knocked off No. 4 seed Mount St. Joseph 2-1 in Tuesday's other semifinal.

The notification shall be made by telephone at the number furnished by such person and also by e-mail address has been received.

Notice is hereby given that electronic proposals will be received vial PARITY® pursuant to this Notice until the time specified in the Notice, but no bid will be received after the time for receiving bids specified above. To the extent any instructions or directions set forth in PARITY® conflict with this Notice, the terms of this Notice shall control. For further information about PARITY®, potential bidders may contact the Corporation's municipal advisor, Baker Tilly at (317) 465-1500 or PARITY® at (212) 849-5021.

At the time designated for the sale, the Corporation will receive at the offices of Baker Tilly, 8365 Keystone Crossing, Suite 300, Indianapolis, Indiana, and consider bids for the purchase of the following described Bonds:

Madison Consolidated School Building Corporation Ad Valorem Property Tax First Mortgage Bonds, Series 2019 (the "Bonds") in the principal amount of $5,170,000; Fully registered form; Denomination $5,000 and integral multiples thereof (or in such other denomination as requested by the winning bidder); Originally dated the date of delivery of the Bonds; Bearing interest at a rate or rates to be determined by bidding, payable on July 15, 2020, and semiannually thereafter; Interest payable by check mailed one business day prior to the interest payment date or by wire transfer to depositories on the interest payment date to the person or depository in whose name each Bond is registered with the trustee on the fifteenth day immediately preceding such interest payment date; Maturing or subject to mandatory redemption on January 15 and July 1 beginning no earlier than July 15, 2020 through no later than January 15, 2032 on the dates and in the amounts as provided by the Corporation prior to the sale.

As an alternative to PARITY®, bidders may submit a sealed bid or e-mail the bid electronically to the Corporation's municipal advisor at the address described above until the time and on the date identified in the notice given by, or on behalf of the Corporation, twenty-four hours prior to the sale of the Bonds. Upon completion of the bidding procedures described herein, the results of the sealed, non-electronic bids received shall be compared to the electronic bids received by the Corporation.

If a potential bidder has questions related to the School Corporation, the financing or submission of bids, questions should be submitted by email to the addresses above no later than 11:00 a.m. (Indianapolis Time) on November 15, 2019. To the best of the School Corporation's ability, all questions will be addressed by or on behalf of the School Corporation and sent to potential bidders, including any bidders requesting 24 hours' notice of sale, no later than 5:00 p.m. (Indianapolis Time) on November 15, 2019. Additionally, upon request, the written responses will be emailed to any other interested bidder. Bidders should review this notice as well as the Preliminary Official Statement and submit any questions in advance of this deadline to submit questions.

The Corporation reserves the right to adjust the maturity schedule following the sale in order to accomplish the Corporation's financial objectives by reallocating debt service based upon the rates bid by the successful bidder (the "Purchaser").

The Bonds are not subject to optional redemption prior to maturity. A bid may designate that a given maturity or maturities shall constitute a term bond, and the semi- annual amounts set forth in the schedule provided prior to the sale shall constitute the mandatory sinking fund redemption requirements for such term bond or bonds. For purposes of computing net interest cost, the mandatory redemption amounts shall be treated as maturing on the dates set fourth in the schedule provided prior to the sale.

In the case of redemption, 30 days' notice will be given by mail to the registered owners of the Bonds to be redeemed, and accrued interest will be paid to the date fixed for redemption. Interest on the Bonds so called for redemption will cease on the redemption date fixed in said notice if funds are available at the place of redemption to redeem the Bonds so called on the date fixed in said notice, or thereafter when presented for payment.

Each bid must be for all of the Bonds and must state the rate of interest which each maturity of the Bonds is to bear, stated in multiples of 1/8th or 1/100th of 1%. The maximum interest rate on the Bonds shall not exceed 5.00% per annum. All Bonds maturing on the same date shall bear the same rate. Bids shall set out the total amount of interest payable over the term of the Bonds and the net interest cost on the Bonds covered by the bid. No bid for less that 99.50% of the face value of the Bonds will be considered. The Bonds will be awarded to the lowest responsible and responsive bidder who has submitted a bid in accordance herewith. The winning bidder will be the one who offers the lowest true interest cost to the Corporation. The true interest cost rate is that rate which, when used to compute the total present value as of the date of delivery of the Bonds of all debt service payments on the Bonds on the basis of semiannual compounding, produces an amount equal to the sum of the par value of the Bonds minus any premium bid plus any discount. In the event of a bidder's error in interest cost rate calculations, the interest rates and premium, if any, set forth or incorporated by reference in the official bid form will be considered as the intended bid. No conditional bids will be considered. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. If an acceptable bid is not received for the Bonds on the date of sale hereinbefore fixed, the sale may be continued from day to day thereafter without further advertisement, during which time no bid which provides a higher total interest cost to the Corporation than the best bid received at the time of the advertised sale will be considered.

A good faith deposit ("Deposit") in the form of cash, wire transfer or certified or cashier's check in the amount of $51,700 payable to the order of the Corporation is required to be submitted by the Purchaser not later than 3:30 p.m. (Indianapolis Time) on the next business day following the award. If such Deposit is not received by that time, the Corporation may reject the bid. No interest on the Deposit will accrue to the Purchaser. The Deposit will be applied to the purchase price of the Bonds. In the event the Purchaser fails to honor its accepted bid, the Deposit will be retained by the Corporation as Liquidated damages.

The Purchaser shall make payment for such Bonds and accept delivery thereof within five days after being notified that the Bonds are ready for delivery, at such place in the City of Indianapolis, Indiana, as the Purchaser may designate, or at such other location mutually agreed to by the Madison Consolidated Schools (the "School Corporation") and the Purchaser. The Bonds will be ready for delivery within 45 days after the date of sale. If the Corporation fails to have the Bonds ready for delivery prior to the close of banking hours on the forty-fifth day after the date of sale, the Purchaser may secure the release of the bid upon request in writing, filed with the Corporation. Unless otherwise requested by the winning bidder, the Purchaser is expected to apply to a securities depository registered with the Security and Exchange Commission ("SEC") to make such Bonds depository-eligible. If the Bonds are reoffered, at the time of delivery of the Bonds to the Purchaser, the Purchaser will be required to certify to the Corporation the initial reoffering price to the public of a substantial amount of each maturity of the Bonds.

All provisisons of the bid form and Preliminary Official Statement (as hereinafter defined) are incorporated herein. As set forth in the Preliminary Official Statement, the Purchaser agrees by submission of their bid to assist the Corporation in establishing the issue price of the Bonds under the terms outlined therein and shall execute and deliver to the Corporation at closing an "issue price" certificate, together with the supporting pricing wires or equivalent communications, with such modifications as may be appropriate or necessary, in the reasonable judgement of the Purchaser, the Corporation and Ice Miller LLP ("Bond Counsel").

Bidders must comply with the rules of PARITY® in addition to requirements of this Notice. To the extent there is a conflict between the rules of PARITY® and this Notice, this Notice shall control. Bidders bay change and submit bids as many times as they wish during the sale, but they may not withdraw a submitted bid. The last bid submitted by a bidder prior to the deadline for the receipt of bids will be compared to all ohter final bids to determine the winning bid. During the sale. no bidder will see any other bidder's bid, nor will they see the status of their bid relative to other bids (e.g., whether their bid is a leading bid).

It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds, but neither the failure to print such numbers on any Bond nor any error with respect thereto shall constitute cause for failure or refusal by the successful bidder therefor to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds in accordance wiht the terms of its proposal. No CUSIP identification number shall be deemed to be apart of any Bond or a part of the contract evidenced thereby and no liability shall hereafter attah to the Corporation or any of its officers or agents because of or on account of such numbers. All expenses in relation ot the printing of CUSIP identification numbers on the Bonds shall be paid for by the Corporation; provided, however, that the CUSIP Service Bureau charge for the assignment of said numbers shall be the responsibility of and shall be paid for by the Purchaser. The Purchaser will also be responsible for any other fees or expenses it incurs in connection with the resale of the Bonds.

The approving opinion of Bond Counsel, together with a transcript of the proceedings relating to the issuance of the Bonds and closing papers in the usual form showing no litigation questioning the validity of the Bonds, will be furnished to the Purchaser at the expense of the Corporation.

The Corporation was organized for the purpose of constructing and renovating school building and leasing such building to the School Corporation. All action has been taken and the Bonds are issued in compliance with the provisions of I.C. 20-47-3 (the "Act"). The Bonds will be secured by a Trust Indenture (the "Trustee") and will be subject to the terms and provisions of the Indenture. The Corporation will certify as to facts to support the conclusion that the Bonds do not constitute private activity bonds as defined in Section 141 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended to the date hereof (the "Code"). The Bonds have been designated as qualified tax-exempt obligations for purposes of Section 265(b)(3) of the Code.

The property to be covered by the Indenture has been leased for a period of 12 years to the School Corporation. The Lease Agreement (the "Lease") provides for rent during renovation in the amount of up to $1,377,500 per payment payable on June 30 and December 31 beginning on June 30, 2020 until completion of construction. Thereafter, the Lease provides for annual payments in the of $2,755,000, plus the payment of all taxes and assessments, which annual rental is payable semiannually on June 30 and December 31 in each year, commencing with the completion of the construction or June 30, 2021, whichever is later.

After the sale of all Bonds issued by the Corporation to pay for the cost of renovation, including the acquisition of the sites thereof and other expenses incidental thereto, the annual rental shall be rduced toa n amount equal to the multiple of $1,000 next highest to the highest sum of principal and interest due on such Bonds in each twelve month period ending on January 15 plus $5,000, payable in equal semiannual installments. All bidders shall be deemed to be advised as to the provisions of the above-mentioned Indenture and Lease and the provisions of the Act.

The Bonds constitute an indebtedness only of the Corporation, payable in accordance with the terms of the Indenture. The Bonds constitute a valid and legally binding obligation of the Building Corporation and are payable from Lease rental payments to be received from the School Corporation, which Lease rental payments are payable form ad valorem taxes to be collected on the taxable property within the School Corporation; however, the School Corporation's collection of the levy may be limited by operation of I.C. 6-1.1-20-6, which provides taxpayers with tax credits for property taxes attributable to different classes of property in an amount that exceeds certain percentages of the gross assessed value of that property. The School Corporation is required by law to fully fund the payment of debt service on the Bonds in an amount sufficient to pay the debt service, regardless of any reduction in property tax collections due to the application of such tax credits. In the opinion of Bond Counse, under the existing federal statutes, decisions, regulations and rulings, the interest on the Bonds is exempt from all income taxation in Indiana. In the opinion of Bond Counsel, under the existing federal statures, deisions, regulations and rulings, the interest on the Bonds is excludable from gross income for purposes of federal income taxation.

The Corporation has prepared a Preliminary Official Statement (the "Preliminary Official Statement") relating to the Bonds which it has deemed to be nearly final. A copy of the Preliminary Official Statement may be obtained from the Corporation's municipal advisor, Baker Tilly, 8365 Keystone Crossing, Suite 300, Indianapolis, Indiana 46240-2687. Within seven (7) business days of the sale, the Corporation will provide the successful bidder with sufficient copies of the Final Official Statement (the "Final Official Statement") at the Corporation's expense in order for such bidder to comply with Section (b)(4) of the SEC Rule 15c2-12 and the rules of the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board. Additional copies, at the Purchaser's expense, must be requested within five (5) business days of the sale. Inquiries concerning matters contained in the Preliminary Official Statement must be made and pricing and other information necessary to complete the Final Official Statement must be submitted by the Purchaser within two (2) business days following the sale to be included in the Final Official Statement.

If the Bonds are reoffered, the School Corporation agrees to enter into a first amendment to master continuing disclosure undertaking and second supplement to master continuing disclosure undertaking (collectively, the "Master Agreement") in order to permit the Purchaser to comply with the SEC Rule 15c2-12, as amended to the date hereof. A copy of such Master Agreement is available from the School Corporation or municipal advisor at the addresses below.

Further information relative to the Bonds and a copy of the Preliminary Official Statement may be obtained upon application to Bake Tilly, 8365 Keystone Crossing, Suite 300, Indianapolis, Indiana 46240-2687, municipal advisor to the School Corporation; Robert Rund and Alex Carlisle, Lewis & Kappes, P.C., One American Square, Suite 2500, Indianapolis, Indiana 46282, attorney for the School Corporation; or Jeff Studebaker, Superintendent of the School Corporation, 2421 Wilson Avenue, Madison, Indiana 47250.

If bids are submitted by mail, they should be addressed to the Corporation, attention of Baker Tilly, 8365 Keystone Crossing, Suite 300, Indianapolis, Indiana 46240-2687.

and having a good season, that helped a lot and made our bench much deeper."

Madison's run ended with a 9-0 loss to eventual state champion Evansville Memorial in the regional final, but even with that loss, the Cubs couldn't hang their heads. Just reaching that level for the second time ever was an accomplishment in and of itself.

"That was something that I'm going to remember from a long time," Heitz said. "I looked at the scoreboard with a minute left and I was sad, but then I thought of everything we accomplished this year and everybody being closer. It was a great season."

Soccer wasn't Heitz's only activity in the fall. He also played kicker in football for the first time and drilled a 30-yard field goal in the season opener and missed only two extra points all season.

"It was really cool. The first game was really surreal because in practice, I would kick off and I would just stand there but in the first game, I kicked off and was just trotting down the field and I got hit. I was like, 'OK, now it's real. I actually have to stand my ground,'" Heitz said with a laugh. "My friend is the PAT holder and when I made (the first field goal), he came up to me and gave me a big hug. It felt nice knocking that first one through."

Although the high school soccer season is over, Heitz will quickly transition into club soccer with plans on getting even better. The Cubs may have surprised everybody this year, but Heitz knows the pressure is now on for next year.

"I want my touch to be better. I want to be able to control the ball better, that's something I need to work on," Heitz said. "And I definitely need to improve my shot, because that's not something I was too good at this year. It wasn't my specialty. I just took the shot and hoped it went in."

"He's probably going to have to be in a more offensive role. I think he'll excel at it, but it will be a different role for him because he's used to playing in the middle but now he'll be in more of an attacking role," Bipes said. "He's got to work on his shot and his communication a little bit, but it's going to be extremely fun to have him as a senior because he's worked hard for three years and he'll work hard next year and hopefully we'll defend that sectional title and then take the next step."

Taking the next step is definitely something Heitz is banking on. Never one to shy away from speaking his mind, he's already guaranteed it.

"We're going to go back to the regional," Heitz said. "We're going to win another championship."

PETS OF THE WEEK

AVA

Ava is a 1-year-old Pit Bull mix who is a cute and curious little girl. She does pull on her leash, but is very obedient and will listen when told to stop. She seems to get along with other dogs, but the shelter asks for prospective owners to bring in their dogs for a meet-and-greet to be safe. A house with cats is not ideal for her.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has 8 dogs or puppies and 25 cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com

Normal shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is (812) 273-1788 and the email is animal.shelter39@jefferson-county.in.gov

All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spayed or neutered. Discount is courtesy of the Animal Shelter and the Jefferson County Humane Society.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the "Walk for a Dog" or "Woof-Trax" app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison, IN 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin on the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

For animal control issues in Madison, call (812) 265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call (812) 265-2648.

The shelter currently needs canned cat and kitten food. The shelter will have a yard sale of pimarily pet-related items Saturday, Nov. 9 from noon to 3 p.m. in the pole barn behind the Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter.

Is it ever a good time to reveal biological paternity?

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: About 65 years ago, my 20-year-old sister, "Pat," had an affair with a married man that resulted in the birth of my nephew, "Harry." The married man, of course, deserted her. Soon after Harry was born, Pat met a slightly older divorced man named "Sam." Sam married Pat and accepted Harry as his own. They went on to have three children of their own and lived together as a family until they both died.

Harry looks nothing like his siblings, who all look very much like their father, Sam. The problem is that Pat made everyone in the family promise that they would never tell Harry about his real father. Pat was forceful and domineering, and everyone was afraid of her. So, the family secret was never revealed and rarely talked about.

Pat was also mentally and physically abusive to her children, especially Harry. Now that she is dead, I'm torn. Do I broach the subject with Harry or let it lie? My nephew is in his 60s, and I'm in my 70s. It's possible that he knows but is embarrassed to bring it up. But he speaks about Sam like he was his real father, so I think that might not be the case. I'm also concerned that he may go on one of the heritage sites and find that his DNA does not match the rest of the family and hold me responsible for not telling him.

Harry has children and grandchildren himself, so I feel that I owe it to them, too, but I don't want to risk ruining my relationship with him or worse, shocking him and ruining his life. — Concerned Uncle

Dear Concerned Uncle: Sixty-five years is a very long time ago. Unless Harry asks you about his biological father — and I use the term "biological" because it sounds like Sam was his father — I believe it's not your place to share this information, barring a serious health issue. You would be stirring the pot for no reason.

Dear Annie: This is in support of getting a flu shot and how critical it can be. My 29-year-old daughter was almost one of the death statistics regarding the flu. I did everything I could think of to convince her to get vaccinated including offering to pay for it. She never did.

She became sick in the earlier part of the week and went to the doctor on that Friday. She was diagnosed with influenza A. The doctor gave her steroids to help fight off the infection, but by the following Tuesday night she was in the ER, and was later admitted to the ICU. Within a few more hours, she was on a respirator and kidney dialysis. She had developed septic shock, all within a week. She was in ICU for about a month. For the first two weeks, we didn't know if she was going to make it.

Thanks to the awesome doctors and nurses, two years later she has made pretty much a full recovery, except that her immune system is still very susceptible. She has since gotten a flu shot every season and has become an advocate for her friends and family, even offering to pay for their vaccinations.

I am considering writing a book about our experiences with this illness. I kept a lot of notes and asked a lot of questions. She was lucky because of her young age. We still visit the nurses who cared for her. They still call her a miracle. Thank you for giving me the chance to briefly tell my story. — Beth A.

Dear Beth: Thank you so much for sharing what you and your daughter went through. I believe there's great power in sharing, and I encourage you to write about this experience and advocate for what you believe in.

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Annie Lane's debut book – featuring favorite columns on love, friendship, family and etiquette – is available as a paperback and e-book. Go to http://www.creatorspublishing.com for more information. SALLY FORTH

I...I FEEL A LITTLE LOST, TED. BUT IF I SAY THAT OR EVEN FEEL IT, THERE ARE PEOPLE ALL TOO QUICK TO SAY I'M BEING WHINY OR SELF-PITYING...
AND YET WHEN I HAVE MY ACT TOGETHER AND AM CONFIDENT IN MY OPINIONS, PEOPLE ARE QUICK TO SAY I'M DOMINEERING AND CONTROLLING. AND IT'S NOT JUST ME.
SO MANY WOMEN ARE TOLD THEY CAN'T FEEL TOO GOOD ABOUT THEMSELVES AND THEY CAN'T FEEL BAD ABOUT ANYTHING.
I'VE NEVER THOUGHT THAT.
I KNOW, SWEETIE. BUT I NEED YOU TO KNOW RIGHT NOW IT'S NOT ABOUT WHAT YOU THINK. IT'S ABOUT WHAT I FEEL.
11-7
KEEFE
AND SEE, EVEN MY SAYING "IT'S NOT WHAT YOU THINK, IT'S WHAT I FEEL" WILL MAKE THE INSECURE SEE IT AS AN ATTACK AND THE THOUGHTLESS SEE IT AS PROOF I'M UNLIKABLE...
IF I HAVE MY ACT TOGETHER I'M DULL. IF I HAVE MY DOUBTS I'M WEAK. IF I QUESTION THEIR TAKE ON ME I'M BEING DEFENSIVE. AND WHEN I'M FUN-LOVING THEY DISMISS IT AS A FAILED ATTEMPT TO TRY TO BE LIKABLE. I'M SEEN AS A TYPE, NOT A PERSON.
IF THIS WERE A COMIC THE FAULT WOULD LIE IN PART WITH THE WRITER SOMETIMES CHOOSING CHARACTERIZATION OVER CHARACTER.
NOT TO MENTION HIS SELF-ABSORPTION IN SUDDENLY MAKING THIS ALL ABOUT HIM INSTEAD.

UNSUNG HEROINE QUIETLY BEATS YOU

Maggie Shayne, an author of romantic novels, said, "I enjoy heroines who grow and come into their own during the course of a story."

That applies to the heroine of this deal, Jacqui Mitchell. She is one of the strongest players ever, but perhaps used to be under the shadow of her husband, Victor Mitchell, who died in 1995. However, Jacqui has the better record. Victor won two silver medals in world team championships and six national championships, but Jacqui has 11 world championship medals: five gold (four team and one women's pairs), three silver and three bronze. She also has 15 national championships.

In the auction, West's two-club overcall was a Michaels Cue-Bid, promising at least 5-5 in the majors. Mitchell's two-heart advance was cautious. With (at least) a nine-card fit, she should have jumped to three hearts. That would probably have silenced South. Then West, with a sixth trump, could have raised to game. Note that four hearts was makable.

When Mitchell bid only two hearts, South sneaked in a three-club rebid and ended in five clubs.

West led the heart 10, showing zero or two higher honors. After winning with the heart ace, what did Mitchell lead at trick two?

Note that a spade switch would not have worked. Declarer would have won with the ace, ruffed her heart loser in the dummy, drawn trumps and played a spade toward dummy's queen.

Mitchell switched to the diamond six! Then the defenders took a trick in each side suit.
